

Art events to leave the house for this month

From Judy Chicago's seminal feminist performances to uncovering Miami's art scene beneath the Basel hype, and new work from Mickalene Thomas

DEAR DIARY, KATJA SEIB, SADIE COLES, LONDON

dear diary, artist Katja Seib's current show at Sadie Coles is deeply psychological: it's a space where paint becomes microscope through which to view Seib's psyche. Doused in deep purples and dark shades, her hazy paintings make you feel like you're in a dream, their hazy aura exacerbated by recurring motifs and symbols which run throughout the show. Female sexuality is explored through the story of Eve and the serpent, where a painting of a woman reclining on a bed, titled Eve's Curse, relates to motifs in Real life is stranger than my dreams, where snakes appear in multiple guises.

dear diary runs until 26 January 2019 at Sadie Coles, London

966 likes

sadiecoleshq

Katja Seib, dear diary, opening tonight @sadiecoleshq, Davies Street, London (image: detail of Eve's curse, 2018) #katjaseib #deardiary

view all 17 comments